 - May 12 Northern division meet at Buena Vista, Storm Lake.
 - May 18-19, Iowa conference meet at Loras, Dubuque.
- Efforts are being made to schedule a home meet on this date, probably with Luther.

Top Hat Sweeps 3 To Widen Pin Gap Over Ritchie Pontiac

By Wayne Koez

Top Hat Cleaners continued its climb to the bowling championship this week by being the only team to sweep a three-game series. This upped that team's lead to four games over runner-up Ritchie Pontiac, who dropped two of three for the second straight week.

Paul Kromer and Ed Cheikh bowled sensational games in the Top Hat five as they totaled identical high single games of the evening with 222. Frank Pieper, bowling for lowly Platte D-X, was second with 221, although his team dropped all three games.

Cheikh, Pieper and Kromer also dominated the individual high series bracket with series scores of 535, 533 and 544, respectively. Jim Unmack was fourth with 535.

Top Hat Cleaners capped high team single games with 833, 786 and 750 for the three-game act. Spahn & Rose Lumber Co. was second with 823 and 745. Top Hat Platte D-X tagged the high series title with a net record of 2,377 pins.

Art Miller Cager, Golfer Par Excellence

By Don Groskreutz

Art Miller, 23-year-old senior and play-making star on this year's basketball team, has been around on the hardwood for a long time and has quite a few honors to show for it.

A native of Muscatine, Art played high school ball with Murray Wier and Charlie Mason, both of whom went on to cage fame at Iowa university. At Washington university for half a season, in 1945, he gained the distinction of being the only freshman in the history of the school ever to join the starting line-up.

Plays in Service.
At this point the army interrupted his college career, but he played with the army allstars of the Pacific coast and was named an all-American in 1946.

This year Art totaled 230 points as he led the Knights in scoring for the season. He sports an impressive free throw record of 30 per cent for the season.

Gives Reasons.
"I came to Wartburg not because of basketball, but rather because it is a Christian college, and largely under the influence of my wife," he confided.

"I take a lot of pride in Wartburg, because it is one of the few colleges in Iowa which does not charge out scholarship money to athletes to come to school. It's a privilege to play ball, and the college should be proud of the same academic regulations that it is second only to coaching."

students talented in music or any other field area."

Wants To Teach.

A physical education major with virtually a major in history, Art is interested primarily in coaching.

"I like to play not one of my goals is to be able to teach sports to people in an understandable way," he said.

Though he is known best as a basketball player, Art considers his finest game to be golf. He is a pur player, and has dropped only one name in college competition.

In addition to basketball, Art serves as a Student Senator and is the college athletic trainer. He has an interest in physical therapy that is second only to coaching.

Zwanziger Ends College Athletic Career With AAU Wrestling Championship

By Ronnie Schumacher

Otto Zwanziger bowed out of collegiate athletics in impressive manner by coping a first place in the AAU wrestling tourney last Saturday.

Fighting in the 191 lb. division, the agile senior from Strawberry Point took care of Papoušek of TC (4-0), Horn, a former AAU king from Osage (5-4), and Geist of TC (4-1) in that order, to claim his title.

His excellent physical condition and grappling know-how were responsible in no small measure for his winning performance. Zwanziger's smooth, efficient and daadly work on the mat this season brought him a respectable career of 11 wins and only 2 losses.

With his three wins in the AAU, Otto has extended his victory streak to 11 in a row—a Wartburg record in this department. "Champ" Wolgast had a skein of 11 straight in 1949, but included in the Wolgast sequence was one draw.

Otto, who also paced the Nelsons in scoring, with 30 points, had this to say on wrestling: "Wrestling is something you gotta learn how to do, and after you learn how, you gotta gain confidence." Aspiring Knight wrestlers may well apply the worth of Otto's statement.

"Something that helped plenty in improving my wrestling was being Champ Wolgast's guinea pig for two years," Otto asserted. "I used to get worked over plenty by Champ, but it taught me some of the tricks of the trade."

Among Otto's pet diversions to relieve the wear of studying is teaming up with the mastodont Elroy Dietrich in a post-supper game of "500".

"We hold him over our heads," he jokes.

Not a participant in either track or baseball, Otto is all done as an athlete at Wartburg. He has carved his niche on Wartburg's honor roll of athletes. We are proud of him.

Band Redeems Mediocre Fall Showing With Impressive Concert Sunday Night

By Bob Gremmel

Only a handful of people braved the blizzard last Sunday night to hear the Wartburg band give its second home concert of the year, but it is doubtful that any of them regretted attending.

It was one of the finest performances ever given by the band and an almost unbelievable improvement over the mediocre presentation of last year. With the exception of a few too many marches, the program was well selected and included a wide musical variety.

Although the entire band showed great improvement, the most noticeable development was apparent in the clarinet section. Even with two members of the section absent, the clarinets displayed smoothness, balance and perfect harmony, all three of which were lacking in the fall concert.

Of the 13 selections played, probably four of them stood out above the rest. "The Universal Judgment" by DeNardis, the heaviest number on the program, was exceptionally well done. Balance and timing were excellent and the brass especially strong. Also impressive was the "French Quarter Suite" by Morrissey, an able selection in four movements, ranging from heavy to almost jazy.

Jim Fritschel's original composition, "Two Short Sketches" does serious recognition, although it was not as well done as some of the other, either modernistic piece, played without percussion and featuring the french horns, has many appealing qualities. It is smooth, melodic and somewhat haunting. Though one of the weaker played numbers, "Two Short Sketches" did itself.

Perhaps the best-performed selection of the evening was the band's old standby, "Valse des Fleurs" by Tschaiikovsky. Aided by the piano artistry of Ruth Meyer, the band here really showed its coordination and polish—especially the woodwinds and the french horns. Audience reaction seemed to indicate this to be the favorite number on the program.

As for the rest of the selections, although most of them were well done, they lacked the appeal of these four. "Trombonium" by Withrow was rather disappointing. The trombone section, though commendable, was not so prominent as Chuck Laue's solo obligato, and consequently proved somewhat of a letdown for the audience.

The two novelty numbers added a delightful touch to the program, particularly the "Children's March" by Goldman. Seeing the band members popping balloons, making "hog calls" and rocking babies gave the audience the feeling that it was being genuinely entertained, something which every audience looks for. Perhaps it was this impression that the band created that of WANTING to play for the audience, that really put the concert over.
